TARANGIRE NATIONAL PARK: Day 2

One of the lesser-known game reserves in Tanzania, Tarangire rivals the Serengeti in its great number and diversity of wildlife. The Tarangire National Park is known as a wonderful birding destination and also features large numbers of game. In particular, Tarangire is known to host some of the largest elephant herds in Africa and dramatic interactions between predator and prey at the park water holes.

NGORONGORO CONSERVATION AREA: Day 3

Ngorongoro crater, the largest inactive, intact and unflooded caldera in the world, was formed when a volcano exploded and collapsed in on itself 2 to 3 million years ago. It is now one of the best places in Africa for wildlife viewing, with the Big 5 and an extraordinary concentration of predators in the area.

A lioness is perched on a thick, mossy tree branch, looking off to the left. The background is filled with dense green foliage and tree branches, suggesting a savanna or woodland environment. The lighting is natural, highlighting the texture of the lioness's fur and the bark of the tree.

LAKE MANYARA NATIONAL PARK: Day 4

Lake Manyara National Park centres around its eponymous alkaline lake, a key habitat for hundreds of bird species. It is home to a famous tree-climbing lion population and a large variety of eco-systems ranging from steep mountainside and dense woodlands to Rift Valley soda lake. There is always something interesting to see and experience in the Lake Manyara region.
